MFL Standards for Programs and Courses

To further the teaching and healing ministry of Jesus Christ "to make man whole," LLU's programs and courses include:

1. Integration of faith in God and course content in relevant and meaningful ways.
  2. Orientation and preparation for lives of service, exemplifying LLU's core values.
  3. Emphasis on health and wholeness<sup>1</sup> informed by the Adventist perspective.

Best Practice Examples

The MFL standards are designed for programs and courses, and the best practices for each standard are meant to be examples that inspire faculty to develop their own or use as is.

1. Integration of faith in God and course content in relevant and meaningful ways.
  - Include Biblical references or Scriptural passages with tools such as BibleGateway.com, text, videos, and narratives.
  - Reference spiritual experiences and stories from personal experience and Christian writers including Ellen White and other Christian writers, plus historical Adventist stories.
  - Incorporate or reference prayer in interactions with students through discussions, announcements, and Zoom conferences.
  - Develop discussions/conversations, self-assessment exercises, case studies, and other assignments that require implementing faith, LLU's vision, mission and/or values into the learning experience in as natural way as possible.
2. Orientation and preparation for lives of service exemplifying LLU's core values.
  - Exemplify the LLU values in interactions with students.
  - Strive to integrate one or more of LLU core values—JCHIEFS<sup>2</sup>—into each course.
  - Give stories or case studies of how a specific value is exemplified.
  - Have students watch videos focused on the course topic and have students reflect, discuss, and apply what they learned in it. "A Certain Kind of Light: What would we hear if we really listened?" is a video that would be appropriate for many health care courses.
  - Provide scriptural verses/passages, philosophies, contemporary quotes, etc., addressing the core value being taught.
  - Assign student journals with self-reflections about how the course impacts student life. (Video or text-based format).
  - Share students' experiences in service, such as: A Pioneer's Life for Me.

- Ensure that online students understand that they may participate in LLU SIMS trips. They can also find local opportunities to serve in their own communities similar to LLU CAPS opportunities.
3. Emphasis on health and wholeness<sup>[1]</sup> informed by the Adventist perspective.
- Keep wholeness in mind when selecting learning activities (journal, videos, resources, etc.)
  - Encourage healthy life-style practices (work-life balance, rest, vegetarianism, exercise, developing and maintaining relationships).
  - Present and discuss the latest credible scientific studies/research on healthy practices such as Paper explores global influence of the Seventh-day Adventist Church on diet.
  - Promote awareness of mental health (depression, anxiety, suicide), connecting students to resources, and encouraging hope.
  - Invite prayer requests and have prayer (phone, videoconference, text-based discussion board), etc., share a meaningful prayer.
  - Use community-applied learning activities (service-learning, community outreach, family and workplace) in the spirit of LLU's mission.
  - Provide online communities and social media spaces (for interactions around impacts in life, prayer, coaching, inspiring each other).
  - Encourage or require students to view online University@Worship services (Wednesdays and recorded sessions). There may be opportunities for online students to participate in live University@Worship services, such as giving prayer, via Zoom. If interested, contact the LLU online chaplain: K.C. Hohensee. Provide discussion/reflection opportunities.
  - Provide links to selected external Seventh-day Adventist resources in areas of health, family relations, spiritual life, etc.
